RAMI KADI
maison de couture

MAISON RAMI KADI MAKES A GRAND ENTRANCE AT THE 80TH VENICE FILM FESTIVAL

The 80th edition of the Venice Film Festival witnessed an enchanting display of couture evening gowns, as Maison Rami Kadi graced the event with an array of captivating red carpet ensembles sourced from the Maison's latest collections, "Film Noir" and "Mantra," along with impeccably tailored custom-made and ready to wear dresses.

Distinguished in Rami Kadi couture attire were notable figures, including the creative director & producer Eleonora Carisi, the Lebanese actress and director Nadine Labaki, Italian thespian Nicole Mazzocato, art director Cristina Musacchio, and Angela Caloisi.

Nadine Labaki wears a Rami Kadi ready-to-wear black lace gown, as she attends the "Cartier" event at the 80th annual Venice Film Festival.

Nicole Mazzocato steals the spotlight at the 80th annual Venice Film Festival in a Rami Kadi couture pale orange embroidered gown from the Mantra collection, as she attends the "Maestro" red carpet.

Angela Caloisi wears a white pearl knitted embroidered Rami Kadi couture gown, featuring an open-back, as she attends the "Campari" party.

Eleonora Carisi turns heads in a hand-embroidered morning mist blue custom designed Rami Kadi couture gown, as she attends the "Ferrari" red carpet.

Cristina Musacchio attends "The Killer" red carpet in a Rami Kadi couture "Film Noir" moonbeam embroidered gown.